WILL MOVE TO KALIHI

Slaughter Houses
Are to Leave Iwilei.

FLUME TO SEA WILL BE BUILT

Sanitary Conditions at Present
Location to Be Improved by the Metropolitan.

A third meeting between the members of the Board of Health and the representatives of the slaughter houses in Iwilei was held yesterday afternoon. A satisfactory compromise was effected with the Metropolitan Meat Company, though, in regard to the other firms, no agreement has been reached. Mr. Cecil Brown appeared on behalf of the Metropolitan, and submitted a plan for the construction of a flume to carry the slaughter house offal far out into the sea, from the present location, until new buildings can be erected on land of the company at Kalihi. This trough is to be 550 feet long, and will cost about $500. It is to be built immediately, and the company agrees to remove from the present location within ninety days. So far, they have been unable to secure a right of way through the grounds of private parties in Kalihi for the flume, and the Board of Health is making arrangements to secure the desired concessions from the Marine Hospital Service of the United States, which owns land through which the pipe to the sea must be laid. It is understood that assurances that the necessary permission will be given have already been obtained. Mr. Brown stated that as soon as the desired right of way is secured, and given in writing the company would agree to move from Iwilei within ninety days. He thought that the removal would require at least that length of time, as it would have to be made piecemeal, and arrangements must also be made with the railroad company for the transportation of meat to the city.

"You must recognize the imperative and immediate need of this removal from the present location, under the health conditions here," said President Sloggett.

"We recognize that and will remove our slaughter house as rapidly as is possible under the circumstances," said Mr. Brown.

"And in the meantime this flume to the sea must be built."

"That will be done right away," replied Mr. Brown.

Mr. Brown thought the Board of Health should give a guarantee that the slaughter houses would not again be compelled to move within a few years. None of the members were in favor of this, the united opinion being that they had no authority to act for future boards, or make any promises for themselves, which would obstruct action in case the premises again became insanitary.

Dr. Pratt did not believe there was much danger from complaints at Kalihi, and thought the slaughter houses would have a long lease of life there. He called attention to the fact that the Kalihi site was surrounded on three sides, and there was little danger of residences being built in that vicinity, as the fertilizer works, Kalihi stream and the government reservation would stop a too near approach to the proposed slaughter houses.

F. F. Porter also appeared and protested against the removal of his pigs from Iwilei. He said that his place was over water and was kept in a perfectly sanitary condition. The tide ebbed and flowed under it twice every twenty-four hours, and all refuse is carried far out to sea. He had purchased a spraying machine and white-washed his place and kept it perfectly clean and sanitary. He said there wasn't a rat within a block of the premises, and he saw no reason why he should be compelled to move. The members of the board who had visited the place disagreed with Mr. Porter, and stated that they had seen rats about the place and that the stench was unbearable. Dr. Sloggett read from the minutes of the meeting eighteen months ago, in which it was shown that all the slaughter houses and pig pens had been ordered removed. Mr. Porter objected to removal, and stated that if he was compelled to leave the place he now has leased, the government should provide the site, as the Metropolitan Company owned all the desirable land at Kalihi. He cited the instance of the city of San Francisco, where a site had been provided free of cost to the butchers and packers, and he thought that the local board should do likewise. He said it would cost him from $3,000 to $4,000 to move, and he ought to be given time to secure a new location. It was finally decided to let the matter of the pigs go over for one meeting, with the understanding, however, that all the slaughter houses must be removed from Iwilei, and the place put in a sanitary condition immediately, pending the removal.

There were present at the meeting, President Sloggett, Dr. Cooper, Dr. Moore, E. P. Dole and Dr. Pratt, and Cecil Brown, Ed Ingham, F. F. Porter and Dr. Monahan.

RARE BOOKS NOW IN HONOLULU

One of the most valuable collection of books ever brought to Honolulu arrived on the last steamer. Among them are rarities in bookmaking, many of them being illuminated Roman missals, the work of the monks in the Middle Ages. The owner prizes them above price. The Salt Lake Tribune of November 1 contains the following description of the valuable collection:

A rare and valuable collection of books was that seen at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Nelden on Tuesday evening. Not many had the pleasure of seeing them, but those who were there remained until almost midnight poring over their pages, admiring the exquisite workmanship of former and modern days. Some of the volumes showed the patient, untiring work of years, with illuminated pages and beautiful lettering, every stroke by hand, done in the long ago by the painstaking monks. Among the rarest of these was a Roman missal printed probably in the fourteenth century, showing the handiwork of at least five in the lettering, and of several more in the illumination. A German book of devotion, bound in morocco, its cover studded with pearls and enamel, with pen and ink drawings finer than any steel engraving of modern times, was one of the most admired of the collection. Then there was a Latin book of devotion, with its lids of silk, richly embroidered in gilt, with the work between the lids not less beautiful. A miniature copy of the Elzevir, published in 1624, in an excellent state of preservation, was also there. An original edition of the Madbras in two volumes, and a reprint of 1822 were on exhibition. A rare example of the modern bookmaker's art was Gray's "Elegy," a volume printed on vellum, with exquisite water color illustrations. The price of this small book was $120. Another valuable edition was a $1,000 copy of Tennyson in sixteen volumes, printed on vellum, with twelve water colors, with original drawings by Dore from "Idylls of the King," and signed by Dore and Tennyson.

Among the more ancient examples of hand illumination were "A History of King Arthur of Little Britain," and "Poetry of Early France." Among the modern examples of this art were seen the "Deserted Village" by the Roycrofters; Tennyson's "Maud," from the Kelmscott press; Browning's "Last Ride," "All Ba-
